Profile

I am a professionally qualified, experienced and fully accredited psychotherapist; having worked both in private practice and within the NHS. I have a rich and varied experience dealing with many different issues and people from all walks of life.

I trained as a psychotherapist at the Centre for Counselling and Psychotherapy , completing a four year UKCP accredited post graduate diploma. Additionally I am also a qualified psychosexual and relationship therapist, holding a post graduate diploma from The London Diploma, training accredited by COSRT.

Prior to retraining to become a psychotherapist i worked within the corporate sector, working for a blue chip company and ran my own business. Therefore I have direct exprience of the demands of corporate life and the stresses of balancing career with family and personal relationships.
